

WHY YOU WRITE!

Poem by Jon Johnson

You have a voice that the world needs to hear.
You have expressions that the people need to feel.
Your words give us a point-of-view that opens our minds to new possibilities.

Your stories tell us about dreams we have yet to dream, about life we have yet to live.

Your words give us feelings we didn't know we had, and although it's not always happy, we can learn from the sad.
